Service by the Numbers: Measuring CNCS Program Impact

The programs of the Corporation for National and Community Service benefit individuals and communities alike

How?

It's all in the numbers...

Teach for America, an AmeriCorps grantee, improves students' standardized tests by the equivalent of an additional 2.6 months of learning

46% of new Senior Corps volunteers report improvements in health and wellbeing after just one year

The University of Texas at Austin found national service programs

Strengthen the overall health of communities

With citizens expressing fewer negative sentiments in communities with AmeriCorps programming

Effective CNCS-funded organizations also increase the return on taxpayer investments in communities

Reading Partners, another AmeriCorps grantee, demonstrated $980 in cost savings per student, compared to schools operating similar programs

So how do we know this?

It's simple: Research

Evidence and evaluation are core values at CNCS

Values that we use to help other organizations become more efficient and effective

Since 2015, CNCS has used program effectiveness evidence to make grants that...

Train and employ workers,

Build infrastructure,

Educate children,

And improve health

A study of CNCS grantees revealed improvements in 13 out of 14 indicators of organizational and evaluation capacity
