Finding what works. Making it work for more people.

What is the Social Innovation Fund (SIF)?

“Instead of wasting taxpayer money on programs that are obsolete or ineffective, government should be seeking out creative, results-oriented programs ... and helping them replicate their efforts across America.” – President Obama (June 30, 2009).

The Social Innovation Fund (SIF), a key White House initiative and program of the Corporation for National and Community Service (CNCS), combines public and private resources to grow the impact of innovative, community-based solutions that have compelling evidence of improving the lives of people in low-income communities throughout the United States. The SIF invests in three priority areas: economic opportunity, healthy futures, and youth development.

The SIF makes grants to experienced grantmaking “intermediaries” that are well-positioned within communities to identify the most promising programs and guide them towards greater impact and stronger evidence of success. These grants range from $1-$10 million annually for three to five years. The intermediaries then match the federal funds dollar-for-dollar and hold open competitions to identify high-performing nonprofit organizations working in low-income communities that have innovative solutions with evidence of compelling results. Once selected, these nonprofits must also match the funds they receive, and participate in rigorous evaluations of the impact of their programs. The nonprofits share data, lessons learned and results – helping to build the capacity of the social sector and lift-up solutions that can transform lives and communities.

In addition to funding, Social Innovation Fund grantees receive significant technical assistance to support implementation of their innovative programs. Participation in the Social Innovation Fund gives grantmakers greater visibility and plugs them into a national network of funders and nonprofits that are committed to fostering social innovation to improve lives in low-income communities throughout the U.S.

In just three years the Social Innovation Fund (SIF) and our private-sector partners have invested more than a half a billion dollars in compelling community solutions. Three years into the program, the SIF portfolio represents a $177.6 million investment in 20 intermediary grantees and 221 participating nonprofits working in 37 states and the District of Columbia. This modest federal investment is expected to leverage more than $423 million in non-federal match commitments. SIF programs have received funding commitments from at least 168 non-federal organizations to date, and as models develop and demonstrate results, we anticipate that this set of effective solutions will attract a diverse array of funders seeking results.

The Corporation for National and Community Service is a federal agency that engages more than five million Americans in service and champions community solutions through its AmeriCorps, Senior Corps, Social Innovation Fund, and Volunteer Generation Fund programs, and leads the President's national call to service initiative, United We Serve. DETAILED

The Corporation for National and Community Service (CNCS) just released a Notice of Funding Availability \(NOFA\) of up to $65.8 million for the Social Innovation Fund's (SIF) 2014 grant competition. This is the largest grant pool in the history of the program, a key White House initiative launched in 2009.

The deadline for applications is 5:00 p.m. EST on Tuesday, April 22, 2014. Successful applicants will receive grants between $1 and $10 million per year for three to five years. Grants will be matched dollar for dollar by the grantmakers, who conduct their own open competitions to select innovative, effective nonprofits focused on youth development, healthy futures and economic opportunity

The Social Innovation Fund unites public and private resources to evaluate and grow innovative community-based solutions with evidence of results. In just three years, the SIF and its private-sector partners have invested more than a half a billion dollars in compelling community solutions as a result of $177.6 million in federal grants and more than $423 million in non-federal match commitments. SIF has invested in 20 intermediaries and 217 nonprofits working in 37 states and the District of Columbia. To date, the SIF has worked with nonprofits and grantees to develop 72 strong, rigorous evaluation models.

The 2014 competition prioritizes applications with strong plans to support opportunity youth (those ages 14 to 24 disconnected from school or work), and other particularly vulnerable populations. The competition will also prioritize applicants that plan to leverage the collective impact approach where local business, government and nonprofits work together to identify common challenges and effective solutions and then take action together.

Call for External Reviewers Fact Sheet

Please feel free to use the following text to advertise for reviewers for our 2014 NOFA application.

The Corporation for National and Community Service is seeking expert reviewers for its 2014 Social Innovation Fund (SIF) grant competition.

WHAT: The SIF, a key White House initiative, awards grants to and works with grantmaking institutions that in turn direct resources to nonprofit organizations to validate and grow innovative, promising approaches to challenges facing local communities in three priority issue areas:

- Youth Development – Preparing America’s youth for success in school, active citizenship, productive work, and healthy and safe lives;
- Economic Opportunity – Increasing economic opportunities for economically disadvantaged individuals; and
- Healthy Futures – Promoting healthy lifestyles and reducing the risk factors that can lead to illness.

WHO: The SIF seeks program reviewers with expertise in social innovation, philanthropy, evidence-based solutions, scaling, collective impact, opportunity youth, healthy futures, economic opportunity or youth development; and evaluation reviewers with expertise in the range of research designs from randomized control trials to pre/post-test designs

WHEN: The review will take place Early to Mid-May. Potential Reviewers should indicate their interest in reviewing by reading documents found on the SIF webpage listed below. Please respond by March 17, 2014:

- Reviewer Recruitment Notice describes the reviewer experience and qualifications we are looking for; and
- Notice of Interest provides the instructions for submitting your application to be a reviewer.

WHY: To apply your experience and expertise to assessing applications for this innovative federal government approach to addressing compelling national and community needs.

FOR MORE INFORMATION: Read the Reviewer Recruitment Notification and send in the materials identified in the Notification of Interest form that can be found here: <http://www.nationalservice.gov/programs/social-innovation-fund/get-involved>
