Implications for Grantees

Pros:

- Multiple layers of expertise to support program and commission functions
- Diverse CNCS staff offer variety of insights and resources

Challenges:

- May receive frequent updates/requests from multiple CNCS units
- May have difficulty prioritizing or meeting overlapping deadlines
The AmeriCorps State and National Program Officer (PO) can help grantees manage the communications and requests from multiple CNCS units. The PO is the primary point of contact for direct programs and State Service Commissions.

These are the key elements of the PO’s job:

- Portfolio management
- Grant process support
- AmeriCorps State and National committee work
- CNCS cross-unit committee work
Each PO has a group of AmeriCorps State and National direct and commission grantees that he or she manages. In this capacity, the PO:

- Monitors grantee performance such as Portal compliance and progress on approved performance measures
- Reviews and clarifies Grantee Progress Reports
- Connects grantees with resources and opportunities to support their work
- Helps troubleshoot grant or program issues
Types of communication with your PO:

- Online/database contact information
- Phone
- Email
- In-person
Be sure to:

- Verify eGrants contacts each month
- Provide 2 contacts for the internal AmeriCorps distribution list when requested
- Review and update the internal AmeriCorps distribution list when requested
- Sign up for alerts on the CNCS website
- Maintain a schedule of monthly check-in calls with your PO
- Participate in recurring and episodic conference calls scheduled by CNCS
- Always copy your PO on emails sent to other CNCS staff
- Whenever possible, engage your PO in program or commission events, service projects, trainings, etc. This may be a challenge due to federal travel restrictions or budget limits, but it is important to keep it in mind as you move through the grant year.
Be sure your Program Officer has:

- Adequate backstory and context on the program or commission work (especially details that are not part of CNCS-required reports)
- An understanding of special circumstances that impact your ability to be successful
- All your great news as soon as possible; don’t wait until your GPR to share news of a great accomplishment or meaningful service story; POs love great news!
- An immediate heads up on any unexpected developments (for example, a member grievance or notice of investigation from the Inspector General)
Beyond the Basics

• In addition to maintaining regular and positive communication with your Program Officer, there are other ways that you can engage CNCS in program and commission business or help inform the Corporation’s work.

• Each year, there are multiple opportunities for you to share, advise, and volunteer.
Share

• Be pro-active about collecting and sharing powerful stories and images that depict the impact of national service. You can share these stories with CNCS via your Program Officer, on the CNCS website, and through social media.

• This builds our ability to tell the national service story to potential AmeriCorps members, Congress, the general public, etc., and it keeps us all connected to our shared mission of service.
Each year, CNCS asks for input on core agency functions via the Federal Register, written surveys, or conference calls.

It is critical that grantees engage in this type of feedback, since the results of the proposed grant guidance, regulations, or policies will directly impact the communities and members served.

Sign up for the official email distributions on the CNCS website; and check with your Program Officer about all upcoming opportunities to provide input to CNCS.
There are also various opportunities to volunteer to help design or deliver aspects of CNCS or AmeriCorps State and National work each year.

You will receive invitations to help test new grant reports or training materials, speak on panels or webinars, coordinate service projects, and more.

Check with your Program Officer about all upcoming opportunities to volunteer, and, if your schedule permits, get involved in one or more of these opportunities.
• An AmeriCorps member enrolled in an AmeriCorps State and National Direct program receives the AARP Andrus Award for Community Service at the agency’s annual awards banquet. The member is recognized for service she contributed outside of her AmeriCorps service year.

In this scenario, what could the National Program Director do?
Scenario 1: Award Recipient

Share with CNCS:
✓ Program Officer
✓ Office of External Affairs
✓ Corporation State Office

Share outside of CNCS:
✓ State Service Commission
✓ AmeriCorps Alums
Scenario 2: Public Comment Period

In this scenario, what could a Tribal Program Director do?
Scenario 2: Public Comment Period

Advise:

- Create a plan for soliciting input from all tribal partners and compiling it for CNCS
- Convene stakeholders for listening sessions or focus groups to examine the Notice of Funding Opportunity draft and compile feedback for CNCS
- Submit a single, organized response on behalf of the tribe and its partners by the deadline and as directed in the Federal Register
CNCS issues a request for AmeriCorps members and recent alumni to test new functions within the AmeriCorps Portal. The testers will need to represent a variety of program designs, education levels, and ages. The testing will be conducted online.

In this scenario, what could a State Service Commission Director do?
Scenario 3: Portal Testing

Volunteer:

- Reach out to commission subgrantees (Competitive and Formula) as well as national programs operating in the state to recruit members and program alumni
- Reach out to the local or state chapter of AmeriCorps Alums to recruit alumni testers
- Confirm all members and alumni will be able to complete the testing as required
- Submit the contact list of volunteer testers to CNCS as requested
