Learning Paths

What is a Learning Path?

- Use Learning Paths to organize courses and create prerequisites for your learners. When courses have been added to a learning path, the first course will be available to Learners. It will not be until the course(s) before each course has been completed that the next course will be available.

Why use Learning Paths?

- Guide Learners seamlessly from one course to the next
- Create prerequisites by not allowing learners to proceed to the next course until they have completed the one before

Gamification

- The application of game mechanics to a practical application such as eLearning to encourage users to work harder to do well. We have included a Gamification element to Litmos to encourage learners to complete more courses to earn points and badges.
