Jacksonville, FL	PACE Center for Girls, Inc. The Edna McConnell Clark Foundation	PACE Center for Girls provides a gender-responsive prevention, early intervention and education program in non-residential centers in 17 Florida counties for middle and high school girls involved in or at risk of becoming involved in the juvenile justice system. Comprehensive case management, counseling and therapeutic treatment, a life skills management curriculum, and a full course of core academic subjects help troubled young women gain the knowledge and skills to stay out of the juvenile justice system and lead successful lives. Girls are referred through schools, court systems, law enforcement, probation officers, child welfare offices and self-referral. Each center serves an average of 60 girls, seven hours a day for five days a week, year-round. Average length of stay is 9-15 months, after which girls transition to another school, graduate or obtain a GED, or go on to post-secondary education or employment. Once girls leave PACE, they receive three years of follow-up services. During the time frame of the EMCF SIF investment, PACE will serve an estimated 647 additional girls by expanding capacity in existing centers and opening two or three new centers.
