

Nonprofit Subgrantees in Washington

Program HQ Location	Nonprofit Subgrantee Name Intermediary	Description
Seattle, WA	Homestead Community Land Trust Capital Impact Partners	Homestead Community Land Trust stewards a growing portfolio of homes in King County, contributing to neighborhood stability, affordability, and long term economic well-being.
Seattle, WA	SkillUp Washington/Seattle King County Workforce Development Council Jobs for the Future, Inc./National Fund for Workforce Solutions	SkillUp Washington is scaling its investments in the healthcare, business services, transportation and logistics sectors, ultimately serving 800 jobs seekers, at least 320 of who will be placed in jobs.
Bremerton, WA	Peninsula Community Health Services The John A. Hartford Foundation	The John A. Hartford Foundation plans to disseminate the IMPACT model of depression treatment through community health clinics as subgrantees to serve low-income, rural communities in Wyoming, Washington, Alaska, Montana, and Idaho. The IMPACT model is a collaborative care approach in which a primary care provider (PCP) and care manager team, along with a psychiatric consultant, provide treatment for depression. The care managers and PCPs retain primary responsibility for treatment and receive advice from the psychiatric consultant when patients are not improving. The key anticipated outcomes for the SIF IMPACT evaluation include the following: 1) Increased access to effective depression treatment for low-income patients in rural areas; 2) Decreased depression and improved social and occupational functioning among these patients; and 3) Improved economic well-being of individuals and families served including: a) Reduction of costs related to health care expenditures; b) Improvements in employment and related income; and c) Reduction in care-related costs for depression that are borne by family members.
Chehalis, WA	Lewis County Communiy Health Services and Valley View Health Center The John A. Hartford Foundation	The John A. Hartford Foundation plans to disseminate the IMPACT model of depression treatment through community health clinics as subgrantees to serve low-income, rural communities in Wyoming, Washington, Alaska, Montana, and Idaho. The IMPACT model is a collaborative care approach in which a primary care provider (PCP) and care manager team, along with a psychiatric consultant, provide treatment for depression. The care managers and PCPs retain primary responsibility for treatment and receive advice from the psychiatric consultant when patients are not improving. The key anticipated outcomes for the SIF IMPACT evaluation include the following: 1) Increased access to effective depression treatment for low-income patients in rural areas; 2) Decreased depression and improved social and occupational functioning among these patients; and 3) Improved economic well-being of individuals and families served including: a) Reduction of costs related to health care expenditures; b) Improvements in employment and related income; and c) Reduction in care-related costs for depression that are borne by family members.
Federal Way, WA	Washington Youth Soccer U.S. Soccer Foundation	Through this Soccer for Success program, over 800 youth are provided with physical activity, nutrition education, mentorship, and family engagement opportunities that combat childhood obesity and promote healthy lifestyles.